

Sub Job Link

The

The sub job retains the original job number, with an extension added (e.g. .1) to indicate that it forms part of the main job. This helps group related work under a single job structure while still tracking each component separately.

Follow the steps to create a Sub Job linked to the main job.

When created, the system will automatically assign a sub-job number based on the main job—for example:

Sub Job: Job15.1

The numbering structure clearly indicates that the sub-job forms part of the main job while allowing it to be managed and tracked independently.
